Arabic Script for You

© John Mace, 2013

This electronic book is a completely revised and improved edition of my earlier paperback book entitled Teach Yourself Beginner's Arabic Script, published by Hodder & Stoughton of London in 1999 and 2003, and now no longer under their imprint.
This is the only e-book version authorised by me.

Conditions of use

This e-book, including its media content, is my property and copyright as author. You are free to copy, print or otherwise use all this material in any non-commercial manner; you may not of course change any of its content in any way.
No commercial use is permitted.

Typeset by the author in Palatino, Times, Arial and Traditional Arabic fonts. Photographs and other illustrations in the book are by the author.

Author's Acknowledgments

I am indebted to Willem Herpels and to Ben Hinx-Edwards for very valuable help with the technical preparation, and to Marilyn Moore for her patient proofreading of the text. Any shortcomings now found in this work are my responsibility.
Special thanks go to Mahmoud el-Ansary for the high-quality recording of the pronunciation.
I am also grateful to Ben Hinx-Edwards for designing the website.
The music heard in the Microsoft PowerPoint© slideshow Writing Arabic included in Lesson 12 is taken from In a Beirut Mood (composer Ihsan al-Mounzer, performer Jalilah, CD Pir 1788), reproduced by kind permission of Piranha Records of Berlin.
